MEMORANDUM to Pennsylvania Unit Commanders, Unit DO & Unit ES Officers

From: COL Fredric K. Weiss, PAWG/CC

RE: Emergency Services Training implementing the new 60- series regulations

Date: 18 June 2001

With the recent publication of the new 60- series of regulations, training for emergency services missions is changing. Training for our 101 qualifications will now be focused on the newer Incident Command related requirements. All training needs to be coordinated and directed toward getting our members qualified in the new 101 categories. Also, as reflected in the 60-3, training must be conducted by a Train the Trainer graduate or monitored by a Train the Trainer graduate. These are people qualified to train our members in the new 101 classifications who have attended and graduated from the Train the Trainer sessions put on by National Headquarters.

Members current in 101 classifications now are to be transitioned to the new 101 categories in accordance with guidance provided in the regulations and by National Headquarters. Those people currently in training for 101 classifications (101T card) must transition as well. Either they will complete their training and transition their classification as other current 101 holders, or they will transition to the new 101T card. In any event, the transition must be complete before 1 November 2001.

During this summer as we transition, many of you already have training scheduled in your units and at the Group level. We are working with National Headquarters to enable you to keep the necessary training going. As we work to develop TTT qualified instructors, neither National Headquarters nor the Wing wants training to stop or stop the Wing from performing missions, if not necessary. During this period up to November 1st, we will use the following implementation guidelines.

1. All training must be directed toward qualifying members for the new 101 classifications,
2. Notify Wing Headquarters of any planned training through the Wing DO, for the Commander,
3. Include the planned training dates, the course of study and the training outline for review.

By following these guidelines, we can review the training with National Headquarters and thereby continue training through this transition as we work to fully implement the newly published regulations. Thank you for your cooperation.
